Fish and Wildlife Protection officers are Alaska State Troopers who specialize in fish and wildlife enforcement. Because Alaska is so big, there is only one protection officer for every 6,500 square miles. This means that many fish and wildlife violations go undetected. We need your help. If you witness or suspect that a fish or wildlife violation has occurred, please call the toll-free number shown. You will not have to reveal your name, testify in court, or sign a deposition. You will remain anonymous and may receive a reward. If you would like to make a tax-deductible contribution to the privately financed Alaska Fish & Wildlife Safeguard reward fund, your help will be genuinely appreciated. For more information, call (907)269-5540. The local Fish and Wildlife Protection office phone number in Sitka is 747-3254.
